A black and white photograph of a small, white, single-story house with a tiled roof, nestled in a rural landscape. The house is surrounded by dense trees and foliage. A dirt path leads up to the house, and a small, dark, possibly stone or brick structure is visible to the right. The background shows a hillside covered in vegetation.

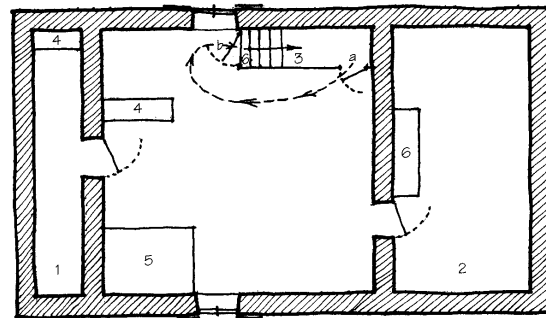

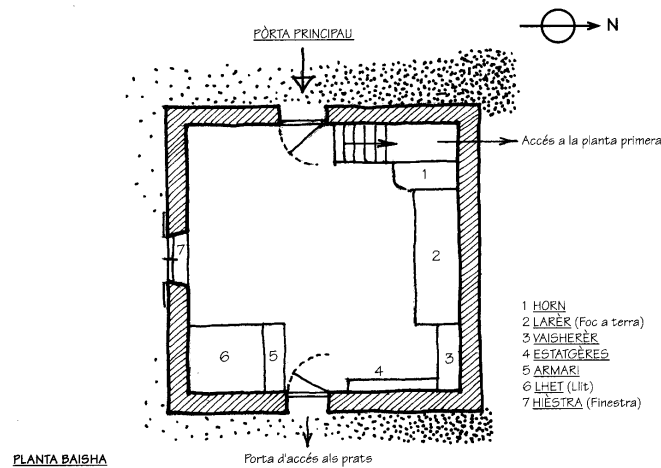

A photograph of a long, single-story building with a tiled roof, partially obscured by trees and a low brick wall. The building is surrounded by greenery and utility poles under a clear blue sky. The building has a light-colored facade and a dark tiled roof. A low brick wall runs along the front of the property. There are several trees, including a large evergreen on the left and bare deciduous trees in the background. Utility poles and wires are visible in the foreground and background. The sky is clear and blue. The text "Arxiu Enric Vicedo-Rius" is visible in the bottom right corner of the image.
